

Economic Policy

The aims of this module are to establish and present the main questions to be debated in relation to the structure and functioning of modern economic policy systems. To this end, emphasis will be placed on economic, fiscal and monetary reforms that have been adopted in many countries worldwide. We will examine several economic strategies and related implications for the identification of different failures on markets efficiency. The module also draws on some patterns of international trade and commercial policies pursued at European level and the potential implications for the Balkans approaching at the EU. Students will master the basis of: Welfare economics, Fiscal policy, Industrial policy and competition policy, Privatization and regulation, European Integration, etc.

Module code

ECON 455

Semester

5th Semester

Credits

4 ECTS

Language

English

Duration

45 Hours / 2 Weeks

Study Program

For BA Study Programs – Tourism and Hospitality Management, Management of Small and Medium Enterprises

Module Lecturers

- Pasquale Marcello Falcone
- Jana Kubicova
- David Harries
- Fatbardha Kadiu
- Daniela Lika